MADE ONE AT HIGH NOON

Son of Commissioner Truesdell and Miss Westcott Married.

Teas in Honor of Visitors from Other Cities—Gossip of the Day in Society Circles.

The Church of the Covenant was artistically decorated with graceful palms for the marriage of Miss Carolyn Dare Westcott to Mr. George Frederick Truesdell, son of Commissioner Truesdell, which took place at high noon today.

The groom and his best man, Mr. Rufus King of Cincinnati, Ohio, entered from the vestry with the officiating clergyman, Rev. Dr. Hamlin, and awaited the bride at the altar. A few minutes past twelve the bride party passed up the center aisle to the "Lohengrin" march, led by the four ushers, who were clad alike in black Prince Alberts, gray trousers and gray gloves, with boutonnières of white carnations.

The ushers were Mr. Charles Westcott, Mr. Horace Westcott, Mr. Howe Totten and Mr. Ormby McManis.

The bride, who is a strikingly handsome and talented girl, was most becomingly gowned in diaphanous white French mousseline, with numerous little frills edged with narrow satin ribbons. The sleeves were composed entirely of the ruffles, and were met at the elbow with long white gloves. Her hat was of snowy chip, and laden with graceful ostrich tips and plumes. The beautiful shower bouquet was of bride roses and maidenhair fern.

As the bridal party passed out to the strains of the Mendelssohn wedding march they were met by the first smiles the sea had given today.

The relatives and a few intimate friends were asked to the wedding breakfast at the residence of the bride's mother, on Twentieth street.

Among the guests at the house were Gen. Bingham, Mr. and Mrs. N. T. Alexander, Justice and Mrs. Harlan, and Miss Harlan, Mr. and Mrs. Parker, Miss Reed, Dr. and Mrs. Radcliffe, Col. and Mrs. Enoch Totten, Mrs. Leech, Judge and Mrs. McCann, the Misses McCann, Lieut. Cambie and others.

Mrs. James F. Barbour has taken a cottage at Long Branch for the summer. She leaves today with her family to take possession of it.

Miss Anna Mabel Steinberg has just returned from a delightful trip to New York, Brooklyn, and Manhattan Beach. While in Brooklyn Miss Steinberg was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Gillis.

Miss Maud Henderson, of K Street, gave a tea last evening in honor of her guest, Miss Thelma Akers, of Lynchburg, Va., who has come to Washington to attend the convention.

The house and porch were prettily decked with evergreens and bunting, and the table decorations were honeyuckles and ferns.

Among those present were Miss Nellie Harper, Miss Grace Madison, Miss Mary Watkins, Miss Lonia Block, Mr. John Henderson, Mr. William Rawlins, Mr. Ralph Tucker and Messrs. Johnson and Wood.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel V. Ellis will leave tonight for Sea Girt, N. J., where they will remain ten days, and thence proceed to Watkins Glen, where they will remain until September.

Mr. John E. Carroll of Laurels is spending a week among relatives and friends in this city.

Miss Lucella Evans of Baltimore is visiting the Misses Darrell of Massachusetts avenue northeast.

Mrs. M. B. Harris and family have taken a cottage at Spray Beach, on the Chesapeake Bay. During the season they will have as their guests the Misses Gaudin and Amanda Hall of South Washington.

Miss Rhelnyde Harrover of Richmond and Miss Ella Stevens of Vicksburg, Va., are the guests of Miss Cecile Butler of Capitol Hill.

Miss George Oliver, of Catlett's, Va., is visiting the Misses Hefflin, of 1243 M street northeast.

A quiet wedding took place on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Grousell of Good Hope, D. C.

The contracting parties were Miss Ada

VANGUARD OF THE HOSTS

Endeavor Headquarters Alive With Workers and Visitors.

HOTEL MEN REST EASY

It Was Rumored That Delegates Would Not Be Sent to Hotels That Have Bars Attached—The Report Hatched—Important Announcements. The Changes in Plans.

A look like that on the face of a man who has lost his best friend should be the counterpart of many a hotel proprietor for a little while this morning, all because the rumor was circulated that the Christian Endeavor committee had blacklisted those hotels that have bars in connection with them.

The committee of reception and entertainment had made arrangements of a large number of the most prominent hotels for delegation headquarters. It was understood, of course, that the majority of the visitors in these delegations would lodge and eat at their respective headquarters.

Every hotel proprietor has consequently been making preparations for the entertainment of the hosts. The market list has doubled, a new army of waiters has been imported in most cases, and the little rooms next to the roof that are only used on inauguration occasions have been dusted out and supplied with cots and wash basins.

It was no wonder, then, that the proprietor seemed on the alert. The clerk went in and eyed the head waiter, and the latter kicked the first man under him, and caused him to drop a tray of empty dishes, when the rumor was first circulated that the bar would have to be closed, or the hotel must do without Endeavorers.

It was only a rumor, however, for the hotel proprietors had all learned differently by noon, and they are now going ahead with preparations for the greatest convention that has ever been held in Christendom.

DENIAL OF THE REPORT.
Rev. E. B. Bagby, chairman of the reception committee, was out of the city when a reporter inquired at Endeavor headquarters for him.

"Oh, there is not one word of truth in that report," he started off, and asked a young lady with three "C. E." badges on the front of her shirt waist, who was pointed out to him as one in a position to talk in Mr. Bagby's absence.

"Of course we would rather the hotels did not have the bars connected with them," chimed in a sweet-faced young lady, who wore only two badges, but who had a handful of crisp, new Endeavor flags. "But we can't help it. How silly. The visitors must go somewhere."

"Well, I was present at all the meetings held by either the reception or the entertainment committees last week," continued the first lady. "There was not one word said against the hotels. You see we have arranged headquarters for a number of the delegations, and that list will not be changed."

"Would any other committee have authority to pass a resolution against the hotels?"

"No, sir; if they did, it would amount to nothing. But I am sure it is only an idle report, and I would only like to know how such things get started."

An even score of hotels have been set aside as delegation headquarters, though, of course, does not imply that every hotel in the city will not receive its full quota of guests to the convention.

The list includes the following hotels: Elliott, National, Howard House, Cochran, Bancroft, Regent, St. James, Willard's, Elmore, Normandie, Fredonia, Arlington, Oxford, Lincoln, and Griffin. At least a dozen of these are equipped with bars or buffets.

ARRIVAL OF VISITORS.
Although the skies served notice early this morning that Washington might be visited at any moment by a heavy and protracted rain, the ardor of the Christian Endeavor convention committees was in no wise diminished. Preparations for the reception of the visitors were continued with unabated vigor, and on no worker's face was there perceptible any shadow, though the clouds rolled threateningly overhead.

Visitors from nearby States began to arrive at an early hour in numbers which would indicate that this gathering will be an exceptionally large one even for a Christian Endeavor convention. Particularly the large numbers came in from Pennsylvania and Massachusetts and most of the other Eastern and Middle States were represented, as were also the nearer Southern States.

So far, however, only unofficial visitors have arrived. The delegations, apparently, have timed their departure, so that they will arrive together at the last moment.

At the Endeavor headquarters, No. 1327 F street, all hands were as busy as bees. The distribution of badges and other insignia continued in increased volume, and many were the crisp dollar bills taken in. Then there were those who wished to purchase views of the city or were seeking information about some of the thousand and one matters peculiar to convention gatherings.

At the Washington Light Infantry headquarters every one was ready and waiting.

CLEANING STRAW HATS.
YOUNG women who have been wearing white straw hats for the past month are beginning to look apprehensively at the stained and soiled brims. It is possible, however, to remove this stain, as anyone can learn for himself.

First brush the hat very thoroughly and carefully remove as much dry dust as possible. Then add a little ammonia to some water, and with a brush and some Castile soap scrub the stained brim until it is clean. Care should be taken not to break or bend the straw, but if this precaution is observed the washing will be found very beneficial.

If any stains do not prove amenable to this treatment, apply a little lemon juice, which is wonderfully efficacious for cleaning straw. When the last remedy has been applied, lay the hat on a flat surface so that it may dry in its original shape. Do not attempt to wear it before it is completely dry.

Just for Wednesday.

We will gladly check packages and give all information to visiting Endeavorers. A reading room at their disposal. And don't forget the coldest Soda Water with Ice Cream at 5 cents.

USES FOR AMMONIA.

A FEW drops of ammonia in a cupful of warm water carefully applied will remove spots from painting as well as from the frames.

Nothing will so quickly clean and polish the spindles of a window blind as a little ammonia and soda mixed with the fine ashes from the ash fire of the range.

Equal parts of ammonia and turpentine will take paint out of clothing, even if it be hard and dry. Saturate the spots as often as necessary and wash out in warm suds.

If those who perspire freely would use a little ammonia in the water in which they bathe each day it would remove any disagreeable odor and keep the flesh sweet and clean.

Put a tablespoonful of ammonia in a quart of water, wash your brushes and combs in this, and all the grease and dirt will disappear. Rinse, shake and dry in the sun or by the fire.

For an excellent silver polish that may be kept on hand for everyday use, mix a few drops of ammonia with the common white soap, and add enough water to make of the consistency of cream; bottle this and keep it tightly corked. Drop a little of this mixture on the polishing cloth, rub the silver lightly and rinse in warm water, and the silver will be instantly brightened and cleaned without the hard rubbing necessary when polishing with the dry whiting.

For removing paint and putty marks from window glass this same mixture of ammonia and whiting may be used for stubborn cases, or simply a little ammonia in warm soap suds. If whiting is used let it become dry on the glass before polishing.

FLORAL PIANO RACK.
THE mistress of the summer cottage who is on the lookout for unique decorative schemes will accept gratefully a plan that the English hostess of a country house has developed.

This is the creation of a floral rack for an upright piano. It makes a welcome change from the monotonous "drap-lin" backs that have for so long given this instrument the appearance of an over-laden clothes horse.

Nothing could be prettier for a piano, forced to stand well out in the room, than a floral rack. It is a luxurious innovation, to be sure, but some women have a knack for growing flowers and plants, and they will not find it hard to coax a group of palms, foliage and hardy blooming plants to furnish this patch of greenery in the drawing room.

One of the wire flower stands moved up against the piano back and filled with flowers will give the desired effect. The lowest shelf should be filled with a dozen of ivy, which, falling down in green lengths, will completely screen the base of the stand.

MISS OCTAVIA'S WAY.
PRACTICAL philanthropy which is being carried on by Miss Octavia Hill, a wealthy English woman, is a lesson to other people with money. Miss Hill's plan is to buy up a lot of tumble-down houses each year, renovate, repair, and improve them, and rent them through an agent to poor but industrious families. It is understood that no man or woman addicted to drink can become a tenant. She picks her tenants, and this being understood there is much rivalry among certain families to be invited to move into a Hill house.

The walls are neatly papered, the floors are painted, ranges and stationary tubs are built in the kitchen, every room is light, and in many instances can be found furnace heat, window seats, and a bit of garden at one end of the house. She expects only a fair rental, but there is profit both to her and profit to the tenants as well, while there is no pauperization whatever.

FOR NEURALGIC PEOPLE.
NEURALGIC people are always sensitive to changes of temperature and sudden chills, and to avoid the risk of these they should wear woolen underclothing—not the clumsy, wooden garments of years ago, which irritate delicate skins almost beyond endurance, but one of the newer makes, combining warmth with lightness.

Very often neuralgia is complained of when, in reality, the half-forgotten stump of an old tooth is at the root of the matter. If there is any doubt about it, a visit to a good dentist would decide the question once for all.

In cases of acute neuralgia, relief may be afforded by rubbing together equal parts of chloral and powdered camphor, and painting the painful spot with it.

Many people cannot take quinine, but those who can will find it the best remedy of all.

The Thimble Fad.
Collecting thimbles which have been the property of female celebrities has become the latest rage. The cream of a collection owned by a wealthy Gothamite is the thimble of that excellent needlewoman, Queen Elizabeth, one which belonged to Queen Victoria when a girl of fourteen; this is a solid and useful-looking silver thimble, but very small. That worn by the mother of George Washington is also in this collection. A thimble much worn once belonged to the Princess Alice, and is a rather large one. The owner was the Princess of Wales; it is extremely dainty, of gold and enamel.

IN MEMORIAM.
CONNER in loving remembrance of Edward Conner, who died one year ago yesterday, July 6, 1895.

And from all earthly pain be released,
So He called to him the Prince of Peace,
To a seat upon His glorious throne.
All is dark within our dwelling,
Lonely are our hearts today,
For one we loved so dearly,
Has passed away to heaven.
